

Associate Professor
International Business Division, Leeds University

The International Business Division and Centre for International Business at University of Leeds (CIBUL) (<https://business.leeds.ac.uk/research-and-innovation/research-centres/cibul/>) is currently inviting applications for the above positions.

CIBUL is one of the world's premier scholarly centres for International Business (<http://business.leeds.ac.uk/divisions/international-business-division/>). Founded by the distinguished Professor Peter Buckley OBE (<http://business.leeds.ac.uk/about-us/our-people/staff-directory/profile/peter-buckley/>) in 1995, CIBUL has developed strong connections with major public-sector bodies and private organisations. Members of CIBUL produce state-of-the-art research at the forefront of international business academia and practice, and their work has been acknowledged globally for its quality and impact.

CIBUL research focuses on the following subject domains:

- Theory of the multinational enterprise
- Conflict and litigation in international business
- FDI in and from emerging economies such as China and India
- International strategy and firm competitiveness
- Cross-cultural management and language
- Corporate governance in the international firm
- Global innovation
- Methodological approaches in international business research

The International Business Division contributes to the full range of Leeds University Business School's programmes including BSc International Business, BSc International Business and Finance, BSc International Business and Marketing and MSc International Business. We also provide PhD opportunities and funding for high quality doctoral candidates.

What will an Associate Professor bring to the role?

As Associate Professor in International Business you will have:

- A PhD in Business, Economics, Management or a closely related discipline;
- An international reputation, including a sustained track record of raising research funds from national and international funding agencies;
- A proven track record of high quality research, as evidenced by research in a related field with a proven track record of achievement as an author or refereed publications (equivalent to be listed as A and A- journals internationally, or 4* and 3* in the UK);
- Significant experience of teaching effectively at all levels within higher education, including module and programme design, review and development;
- Experience of supervising taught undergraduate or postgraduate students;
- Outstanding communication, team working, networking and profile-raising skills to operate effectively within the role; including experience of collaboration on cross-disciplinary projects;
- Proven ability to provide academic leadership, including managing resources and/or staff;
- Evidence of the ability to build trust to ensure engagement and commitment, and to treat staff fairly, with respect and dignity.

Application materials can be submitted online via:
<https://jobs.leeds.ac.uk/Vacancy.aspx?ref=LUBSC1257>.

Closing date: Monday 9 January 2018

Interviews will take place in late January / early February 2018

To explore the post further or for any queries you may have, please contact:

Professor Annie Wei, Head of International Business Division
Tel: +44 (0)113 343 7946

Email: Y.We@leeds.ac.uk<<mailto:Y.We@leeds.ac.uk>

Professor Jeremy Clegg, Professor Timothy Devinney and Dr Elizabeth Wang will be in attendance at the EIBA 2017 Conference in Milan and will be available to speak to about the position.